

Info Note

Release of second source eject latch header typeScope

This Information Note is released to announce that Power Integrations has qualified an additional eject latch header.

Statement

In order to further improve the supply chain security, Power Integrations has qualified and released an additional eject latch header type.

This connector will serve as a second source.

No change (form, fit and function) will result on final products.

Only the visual appearance will differ due to black color of the connector. Both connectors are fully pin to pin compatible.
